Little Hope for Proposal to Place Sales Tax vs. Income Levy Issue on Voter Ballot

Harrisburg, July 31—(P)—The state AFL and CIO drew up amendments today to administration proposals to revise laws dealing with jobless benefits and workmen's compensation.

The labor organizations faced a losing fight, however.

The GOP-dominated house workmen's compensation committee approved legislation yesterday to increase maximum unemployment compensation payments from $25 a week to $28 and minimum payments from $8 a week to $10.

Compensation measures would like weekly payments to workers injured or taken sick because of their jobs from a maximum of $25 a week to $30 and from a minimum of $12.50 a week to $20.

The AFL and CIO feel that the increases aren't large enough. Additionally, they object to provisions in the unemployment compensation measures which would roll back employer contributions to the jobless benefits fund by an estimated $130,000,000.

The rollback would reduce contribution rates for employers with the smallest turnover of manpower from 1.6 per cent of their payroll to the half per cent basis in effect in 1949.

And the labor groups plan amendments to establish a new system of paying partial unemployment compensation so that employees who work only two or three days a week would be eligible for benefits.

Elsewhere in the legislature, taxes continued to be a principal topic of conversation. But there didn't seem to be any concrete action to solve the senate impasse on Gov. John S. Fine's proposal for a one-half of one per cent income tax.

The house received a proposal for a statewide referendum to determine voter sentiment on a one per cent general sales tax as opposed to the income tax.

The "truck bill," backed by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and opposed by railroads and other groups, passed the senate 51-18 on July 10. The vote in the senate split party lines.

In addition to increasing the weight load of tandem axle, semi-trailer trucks, the bill increases penalties for overload by setting up a graduated scale of fines.

Instead of a flat $50 fine as at present, the bill would fix a $100 fine with $2 added for each 100 pounds, or overload. Drivers also would be required to unload when found to be exceeding the limits.

The others, rather than drivers, would be held responsible in event of overload.

The labor groups appeared to be waging a losing fight in seeking to amend the administration compensation benefit bills.

Bill Hiking Truck Limits Adopted by House Committee

Harrisburg, July 31—(P)—The house motor vehicles committee today approved a senate-passed bill increasing the load weight of commonly used trucks in Pennsylvania from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds.

Chairman Samuel B. Dennison (R-Jefferson) said, however, the committee "was by no means unanimous" on one of the assembly's most controversial bills.

Dennison declined to give the vote.

As the house committee acted, the state AFL and CIO drew up amendments to administration bills increasing benefits for occupational disease workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation.

New But Secret Sites Are Developed for the Storing of Atomic Weapons

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Reporter

Washington, July 31—(P)—The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today it is developing new secret sites to "store" atomic weapons—and is planning "much more frequent" test blasts.

Word of the new storage sites came out of a new conference held in connection with AEC's 15th semi-annual report to congress made public today.

A reporter noted a statement in the report that "development of new facilities for weapons purposes proceeded (in the first six months of this year) and announcements were made of some of the sites."

AEC Chairman Gordon Dean told the AEC had already announced the location of sites for production, but added:

"We don't announce where we store our bombs."

At the conference it was also disclosed that the United States has developed some weapons that are a bigger "bang"—that is, "energy release"—than others. The commission said that in one of the reasons why some weapons have been tested in the Nevada desert while others with less "bang" have been tested in the

Senator Chapman Fails in Maneuver to Assure Action on Pet Vivisection Bill

Harrisburg, July 31—(P)—There may be more than one way to skin a cat but Sen. LeRoy F. Chapman (R-Warren) hasn't found it.

The victim was Chapman's pet bill. It would have permitted medical experiments on dogs and cats taken from public pounds.

Chapman, dean of the Pennsylvania senate and a physician by profession, was determined to bring the issue to a vote.

Here's how he tried—and failed—in the span of less than an hour last night.

He introduced a duplicate of a bill that has been languishing in the Senate Public Health Committee. A new aspect of the bill, however, was a token appropriation of $1,000 to the State Health Department to administer the bill.

That gave the elderly physician a loophole for a request that Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, senate president, refer the measure to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Chapman heads that committee.

Almost immediately, Chapman rose to report out the bill as "approved" by the committee, placing it in position for floor action.

The alert ears of some of Chapman's colleagues perked up.

Sen. John J. Walker, Republican floor leader, immediately summoned a closed meeting of GOP senators and grilled Chapman on the so-called committee "approval."

Chapman said he had polled individual members of the committee. But Walker, among other members of the Appropriations Committee, said he was not approached.

The Republican caucus burst the bubble and voted to send the Animal Experimentation bill—and its $1,000 appropriation—to the Public Health Committee.

Chapman's morose reaction: "I thought that was the only way to get the bill out of committee."

The new sentence, to be served after Field completes a previous 90-day contempt sentence, threatens to keep the great grandchild of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt behind the bars for nine months.

Field drew his new six-month sentence from Federal Judge John F. X. McGohery yesterday for refusing to tell a federal grand jury the names of contributors to the Civil Rights Congress (CRC) bail fund. He is a trustee of the fund.

A total of $80,000 bail was forfeited by the CRC fund when the four convicted Communists jumped bond early this month. The government said a clue to their hiding places might be found in the identities of bail fund contributors.

But Field denied the data to Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan on July 6 and received the 90-day contempt of court sentence.

Field is appealing both sentences.

He faces the prospect of being sentenced repeatedly for contempt if he is called back into court after his release and refuses to give the information.

President Truman's key stabilization aides reportedly have advised him to sign the new economic controls bill today—and also to blast it as inadequate to curb inflation.

The United Labor Policy Committee, representing most of organized labor, blasted the measure as a "callous betrayal of the consumers," and said it would back Mr. Truman if he vetoes it.

The measure provides for continuing wage, price, rent, consumer credit and defense production controls through next June, but in some cases it enforces the present

The house approved the bill yesterday by a roll call vote of 294 to 80. Senate passage was by voice vote last Friday. The bill is a compromise version of separate measures approved earlier by the two branches.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle reportedly has told Mr. Truman it appears he has no choice but to sign the bill—that letting controls lapse would cause chaos in the defense production program and perhaps end price soaring.

Traffic Death Toll Soars to New Record

Chicago, July 31—(P)—The nation's traffic death toll for 1951 may reach 37,800, the fourth highest in history, the National Safety Council warns.

In the first six months this year, the Council reported, 16,320 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents, eight per cent higher than for the same period in 1950.

The June toll of 3,080 was 18 per cent over June, 1950. It was the biggest increase for any month since July, 1946, and the second highest June toll on record.

The Council said heavier travel was responsible for much of the heavier death toll.

Added Sentence Is Handed Millionaire Leftist Defendant

New York, July 31—(P)—An additional six months contempt sentence has been handed millionaire leftist Frederick Vanderbilt Field for his refusal to give data in the government's probe of the flight of four top-rung Communist leaders.

The new sentence, to be served after Field completes a previous 90-day contempt sentence, threatens to keep the great grandchild of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt behind the bars for nine months.

Display of Products Made In Local Plants on Exhibition at East Street Bldg. Cafeteria

With today marking the 50th anniversary of the founding of Sylvania Electric Products Co., Inc., a large and interesting display of many of the articles manufactured by the concern has been set up in the plant cafeteria on Second avenue, together with views of all the Company's plants which are in 20 communities in six states.

Also, as a part of the 50th anniversary celebration, plans are going forward for a big picnic of the Company and Employees' Association to take place on September 9 at the Marconi Outing Club.

When Sylvania came to Warren in 1943, the plant was a part of the radio tube division. Now Warren is a division of its own, including the two plants here, the welds plant at Nelsonville, Ohio, opened two weeks ago, the parts operations plant at Emporium, the mica operations in Brazil and Puerto Rico, and also covers two large sub-contractors in Pennsylvania. R. J. Hartung is division manager while A. L. Chapman of Warren, former general manager, is vice president in charge of this division and of the television and radio division in Buffalo.

Sylvania is the outgrowth of two small concerns, one in Middleton, Mass., and the other in St. Marys, Pa., and the company's founding dates from July 31, 1901, when Frank A. Poor, now vice chairman of the Board of Directors, paid $3,500 for a half interest in the Middleton firm which was engaged in the reeling of burned-out electric light bulbs.

The $3,500 represented the profit of the 21-year-old Poor's one-year venture in the hay and grain business, and after moving the business to Danvers, Mass., Poor paid $750 for the remaining half-interest and became sole owner.

Sylvania was brought to Warren in 1943 largely through the efforts of the late S. G. Erskine, former Warren resident and president of one of the firms which merged to form Hygrade Sylvania Corporation in 1931. Mr. Erskine later became president of Sylvania.

Roy A. Juusola is plant manager for plastics.

The present Sylvania plant on East street started operations in October, 1943, even before alterations to the old Hubbard Garage, which Sylvania had purchased, had been completed. The new addition on Second avenue was completed in 1944.

The large new plastics plant, erected on the site of Russell Field and built for Sylvania by the Warren Industrial and Development Corporation, was put into use only three months ago and is now being augmented by a large addition to the east, also for the plastics operations, and by another to the south to give additional office space. The original new plant, built by the Warren Industrial and Development Corporation, contained 33,000 square feet of plant and 2,700 square feet of office space.

The new additions, 61,000 of plant space and 3,500 of office space, are Sylvania-owned.

From only a few employees at the start of operations in 1943, the Sylvania employee roster has grown until today there are 700 individuals on the pay-rolls of the two local plants.

In an anniversary message to the citizens of the states and towns in which Sylvania has plants, President Don G. Mitchell thanked them for their great contribution to the steady growth of the company and to the wide increase in public acceptance of its products.

"Whenever we have decided to locate a plant in a community new to Sylvania," Mr. Mitchell said, (Turn to Page Six)

U. N. Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 31—(P)—Armistice negotiators argued stubbornly for an hour and 34 minutes today on where to draw the cease-fire line in Korea without getting any closer together.

It was the fifth successive day United Nations and Communist delegations devoted to the buffer zone issue. The announced result of each session was the same: No progress.

"The area of disagreement has neither broadened or narrowed," an official U. N. spokesman said. The Reds want U. N. forces to abandon their present battle line and pull back to the 38th parallel.

Delegates meet again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (8 p. m. Tuesday E.S.T.) in their 16th session at Kaesong for another try at breaking the deadlock.

"There was no indication of a compromise to me today," commented the briefing officer, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls. "On the other hand, as you know, a position can be adjusted very quickly. That is neither optimistic nor pessimistic."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy amplified the Allied position, the announcement said, trying to show "the mutual benefit to be derived from acceptance of this view."

North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il replied by repeating "his previous stated stand."

The U. N. wants the demilitarized zone established along present battle lines, cutting across North Korea for more than 80 miles. The Reds want a buffer zone centered on the 38th parallel, pre-war political dividing line between North and South Korea.

Death of Patient At State Is Probed

The death of an Erie county man about 15 hours after he was admitted as a patient to the Warren State Hospital, North Warren, launched investigations by officials of both Erie and Warren counties today. According to the report the patient, Isaac Phillips, 47, was brought to the hospital Monday, in charge of an officer who said the man had been confined in the Erie county jail. Hospital records showed that Phillips was in a state of collapse when he arrived at North Warren shortly after noon and lapsed into unconsciousness soon after being put to bed. He died about 4:30 a. m. today.

Sheriff L. E. Linder joined Coroner Ed Lowrey in the inquiry that was made at the hospital, after which the body was released to an Erie undertaker, and it was understood that the Erie county district attorney's office would continue the investigation there. The history of the case, officials said, indicated that the man may have died from a chronic heart ailment.

New Pork Ceiling Prices Sanctioned

Washington, July 31—(P)—Lean pork prices got official sanction to rise yesterday.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) issued new pork ceilings, and said it will raise most pork chop and roast prices at the meat counter by five or six cents a pound.

Higher prices were granted to slaughterers, OPS said, on pork loins weighing 16 pounds or less, because the prices of lightweight hogs producing the lean meat desired by most housewives has risen "substantially" since January. But the price of pork loins had been frozen at the January level.

Allied Warplanes Hammer Red Positions In "Iron Triangle" on the West Front

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 31—(P)—Allied warplanes swept through low clouds today and hammered Red positions in the "Iron Triangle" on the western front of Korea as ground fighting again dwindled to patrol activity.

Primary target of Fifth Air Force planes was the area around P'yongyang, northern apex of the shattered old Red troop-massing area. Mustangs of the 15th Fighter-Bomber Wing made the attack.

"We strafed a lot of troops on the road and napalmed (fire bombed) a nearby village," said Capt. Gerald R. Marshall of Woodrow, Pa. "I don't know how many troops we killed."

"We set off an explosion in the village—apparently a combination of gasoline and ammunition. It really went up big."

Marine fighters and B-26 bombers hit the Kumsong area east of P'yongyang.

Reds between Kumsong and Kumhwa, eastern Allied-held anchor of the old triangle, hurled two light probing attacks at Allied lines early this morning. Both were turned back.

Those were the only attacks of any kind reported in the U. S. Eighth Army's evening communiqué. There were a few patrol clashes, but generally the communiqué reported little or no contact between opposing forces.

Beaty Heads List In Attendance at Boro Playgrounds

While special events run up the total attendance each week for Warren borough playgrounds, continued hot weather is undoubtedly the big factor in keeping the figures in the upper brackets and last week's turnout at the six areas topped the 8,000 mark.

Beaty headed the list with 2,774; Lacy was next with 1,540; Crescent third with 1,385; Memorial Field, 920; West Side, 770; and Home Street, 625, for a total of 8,014.

Reports indicate the Pet Show held on Wednesday attracted a total of 1,145 and an even greater figure is expected from this week's two-day Hobby Show. Eliminations will be held at each play spot at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, and finals will be held at the same hour Thursday at Beaty.

Inez Rudolph, director of the summer program, reports new shuffleboard sets are in use at Crescent and Beaty and those at the other playgrounds have all been repainted. Horseshoe pits at the areas have been filled with new clay.

Parents are invited to join in all the activities with their children, especially during the evening hours.

Five Emergencies Receive Treatment

Timothy Nelson, Warren RD 2, was treated for flash burns sustained at his home when he attempted to light an oven.

W. S. Slacum, 4 Jackson avenue, was treated for lacerations over the left eye, sustained when he fell at Liberty and Pennsylvania.

George Lauger, Noble N. Y., sustained a severe sprain of the right ankle while stepping from a truck at the Lauger farms.

Social and Concert Well Attended

An exceptionally large attendance featured the ice cream social and program sponsored by the Warren School Music Boosters last night on the lawn at Beatty Junior High School. The affair was given to benefit the band uniform fund. The committee estimated today that 1,500 were present.

The beginners' band, dungaree band, string ensembles and the Dragon band, all under the direction of Harry Summers, took part in an extensive program which was presented while ice cream and cake were served on the lawn by Mrs. Arthur Chapman and her committee. Many also came for portions to take home.

The lawn at the school was well crowded all during the affair and the gathering presented a colorful sight to passersby.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington—(AP)—If you had a serious quarrel with your neighbor, and both of you wanted to straighten it out, you'd probably do what comes naturally: sit down and talk it over, patch it up, and shake hands.

Not so with nations. There you wind up with wheels within wheels. Last fall Russia suggested that the foreign ministers of Russia, the United States, Britain and France sit down to try to agree on some world problems.

Sounds simple, but isn't it? First came the question: just what world problems would they discuss? And which problems first? What Russia thought needed fixing might not be what the U. S. considered first in line.

So, unless the foreign ministers were going to spend the rest of their lives wrangling over the endless problems, and the problem of which comes first, they'd have to agree beforehand on what they'd discuss.

So in the spring they let their representatives meet in Paris to draw up an agenda—the list of things which the foreign ministers would discuss when they met later.

The delegates of the foreign ministers sat down together more than 70 times but never could agree on the agenda. They went home and the foreign ministers haven't met yet.

That's why it's been no surprise that the talks at Kaesong about ending the shooting in Korea already have taken weeks and may take many weeks more.

Delegates on the United Nations on one side and the Chinese and Korean Communists on the other have met at Kaesong to draw up their agenda.

The talks about the agenda have just finished. Now the delegates will begin the armistice talks, taking up the agenda points one by one. In these armistice talks there will be two agenda points which are very delicate:

1. What shall the demarcation line be? That is, when the shooting stops, where will the opposing armies take their stand?

The Communists don't want the Alhies north of the 38th parallel, for that would leave them in North Korea. The Alhies aren't happy about being left on, or just below, the 38th.

The line along the 38th isn't easy to defend if the shooting stopped and then the Communists started it again, the Alhies would be at a disadvantage. The Alhies would like to be somewhere north of the 38th in a better strategic position—just in case.

2. If both sides should agree to stop the fighting, how will either ever know whether the other is just using the armistice as an excuse to build up his strength for a sudden, blinding attack?

THE MARKETS

New York, July 31—(AP)—A slump in steels and motors today pulled the stock market a little lower. Most major divisions showed a mixed trend with the exception of steels and motors which were down a few cents. Prices spread out over a range of less than a dollar higher or lower. An exception was Amerasia Petroleum which gained as much as $2 at times. Phillips Petroleum opened on a block of 3,500 shares up 1/4 at 49 1/4, and then eased a trifle. Other leading oils were unchanged to lower. Rails, which sold off yesterday, were narrowly mixed today. Chemicals also were mixed after their good showing yesterday. Aircrafts showed little or no activity but they posted unchanged to higher prices.

What Would Happen If Advertising Was Discontinued?

Radio broadcasts would stop. Newspapers and magazines would cut down in size and raise their subscription prices. Business would drop and sales personnel would be laid off. Production would slow down and business paralysis would set in. There would be no incentive to improve old products nor make better ones, and there would be no effective way of creating a demand for the new. Our economy is built around aggressive selling and advertising. It would go to pieces without them.

This was 1925. This was the age of the flapper. And at left, presumably, is a flapper doing her sunbathing on the beach. She wears the suit that was most common throughout the latter half of the 20s—the one-piece knitted suit with the strap buttoning over one shoulder. Still brief trunks under the brief skirt, too. But there is a definite tendency toward femininity—there is no doubt whatever that this is a girl. But there were still diehards, including the Miss America of 1925, Miss Fay LaPier. She's still wearing the loose-fitting suit and long stockings that most 1925ers had discarded. Plus a belt with a long tassel. The winsome miss at right shows off high fashion in the mid-1930s. The stylists were considered daring with this number. It had hips and waist! Last you be fooled, be advised that the model is wearing long, high-length stockings. She's a decent girl.

A GRAVE INJUSTICE
OH City Derrick

Congressman Leon H. Gavin's recent denunciation in the House of Representatives of accusations that he was responsible for divulging secret information concerning America's B-36 bombers was welcome news to his thousands of friends throughout this area.

It was welcome news, not in the sense that it was needed or necessary to completely vindicate Mr. Gavin in the eyes of his friends, but rather that it publicly gave the lie to a charge which tended to place the local Congressman in an embarrassing position.

Here in the 19th district of Pennsylvania where Mr. Gavin has lived and worked and faithfully served his constituency it was unthinkable that such an accusation even would be made. For the congressman ever has been known for his honesty, his integrity, and his 100 per cent Americanism. His record speaks for itself. It is a record of service to his fellow citizens and his country; it is a record of which he may well be proud and in which his constituency takes pride.

But any man in public life, even one with the excellent reputation and the splendid record of Mr. Gavin, is not immune to attack and accusation. That is one of the prices he often is forced to pay for the very fact that he is a public servant. It matters not whether the attack be warranted or justified, the condition exists in American public life where an official of unquestioned integrity often is signalled out to be the butt of some damning accusation.

The charge which Mr. Gavin was forced to meet was made on July 16 by a Washington columnist writing in a New York paper. It concerned the divulgence of information given to the Armed Services Committee on the number of atomic bomb carrying B-36 bombers ready to go into action. The article openly named Mr. Gavin as the source of the information "leak."

The article, of course, caused some concern to Mr. Gavin's friends but they never harbored any doubt but that he was the victim of an unwarranted accusation and would be fully vindicated. Subsequent events, together with Mr. Gavin's address on the floor of the house, have proved how right these friends were. For Mr. Gavin not only gave the lie to the charge but submitted an affidavit by another Congressman on a statement by the reporter who first released the figures to the effect that he had not secured them from the Oil City representative.

We feel that Mr. Gavin was the victim of a grave injustice. But we can say to him, and we know we voice the sentiments of his thousands of friends throughout this area, that it will take more—a great deal more—than the accusation of a mere columnist ever to shake our faith in the man we are proud to have as our representative in Congress.

CONGRATULATIONS, SYLVANIA!

Attention is called today to an advertisement appearing on page 7 of this issue with a suggestion that it be perused very carefully by every reader of the Times-Mirror.

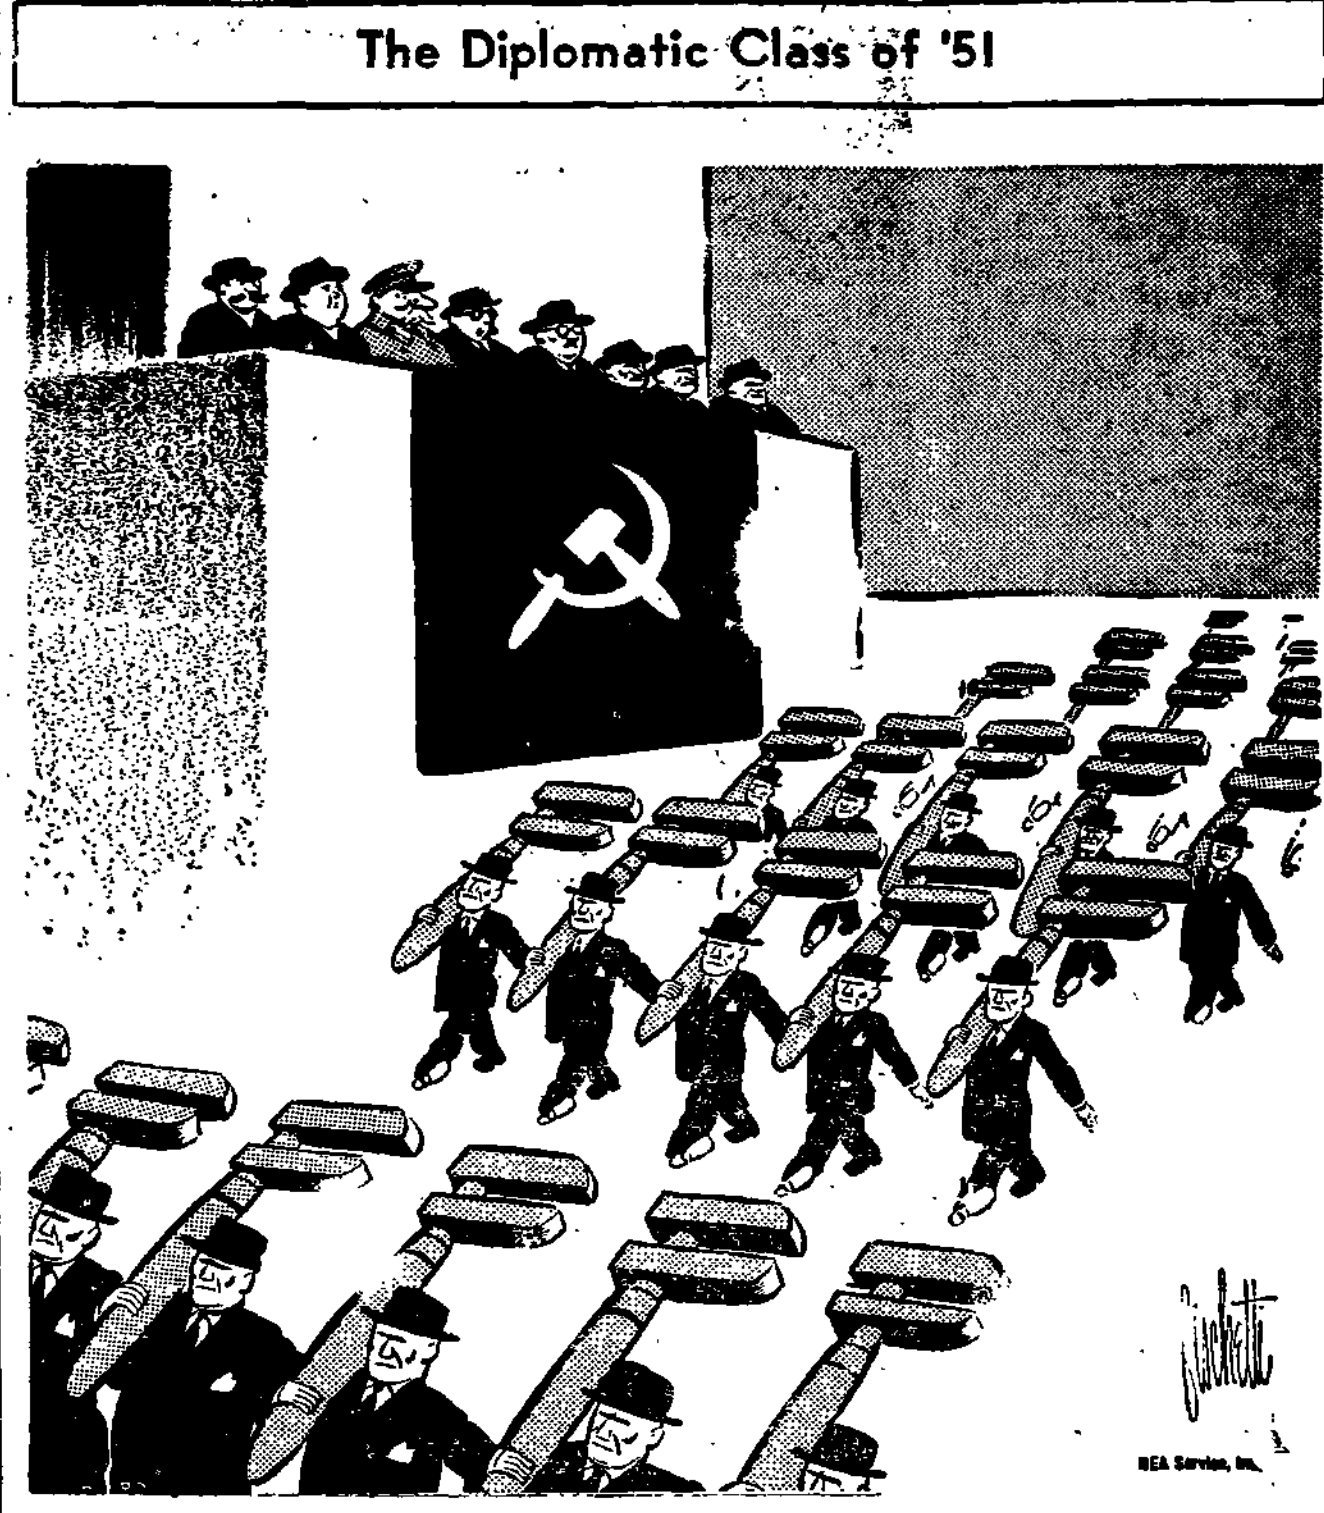

Captioned "Looking Forward At Fifty" the advertisement outlines "a half century of progress" for Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and "envision an even greater future."

Little can be added to what you will read in the advertisement, but we take great pleasure at this time in extending congratulations to "Sylvania," both locally and nationally, and to point out that since coming to Warren in 1943 this enterprising corporation has become one of the leading industries of this and nearby communities.

It is interesting to point out that Warren is one of 25 towns and cities in seven different states where the fine modern factories and laboratories of Sylvania, Inc., have been erected and flourish as leading enterprises in the individual communities.

The 50th anniversary of Sylvania, Inc., recalled that the "Welcome Sylvania" issue printed by the Times-Mirror September 14, 1943, when the first local plant was placed into service, was the largest edition of a daily newspaper in Warren at that time, or since.

School Music Boosters club officers and members, along with Harry Summers and his musicians deserve commendation for the delightful evening provided out of guests during the ice cream social and concerts last evening on the Beaty lawn.

Here And There

Forty years ago when folks of the community arranged an evening of excitement they did not have an opportunity to make a choice between professional wrestling, stock car races, drive-in theatres, taprooms with television, lake resorts, etc. Here in Warren it appears from articles in the papers and talks with residents familiar with the routine of daily life at that time, the only choice they had was to "take the trolley out to Irvinedale park—or stay home."

A party held there July 31, 1911, is described in The Evening Times as follows:

"A dancing party, complete in its appointments, and the enjoyment afforded the 300 guests was held at Irvinedale Park Wednesday evening. The party was arranged and given by Mrs. Talbot and Mrs. Parker. The auditorium was beautifully decorated, Chinese lanterns and Japanese effects being much in evidence. Besides these there were out flowers and palms, and beautiful Japanese lilies, the decorations being of the most pleasing description. The ladies' costumes were varied and beautiful, and full evening dress was worn by the gentlemen. Mrs. Meacham and Mrs. Orr were the caterers and served a daintily appointed luncheon commencing at 12 o'clock. Dancing commenced at 12 o'clock. Reig and Barth orchestra furnishing the music and it was six hours later before the program had been completed. The street car service was such however that it was possible to leave the park frequently during the night. The out of town guests were Mr. and Miss Scofield, Boston; Miss Fisher, and Mr. Fisher, New York; Horace, Minor, Clare and Miss Marion Creary, Sheffield; Miss Clara Gildersleeve, Brookline; the Misses Daring, Philadelphia; Miss Mary and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher, New York."

This 'n' That: Tomorrow will be observed as Hobby Fair Day at the Playgrounds in Warren and it is a foregone conclusion that there will be another large collection of unusual articles, with prizes being offered for the most unique hobby, neatest, largest, best arrangement, most valuable and most educational. . . H. R. Valentine, Clarendon, sends in a clipping from a copy of the Evening Mirror probably printed around 1917 or 1918, which he says was found pasted on the wall of a home, recalling an incident that aroused considerable comment at the time. It says "during the past few weeks many stories have been printed of the letter 'B' appearing on oats leaves. Few have been observed in this vicinity, but in the Beaty field on the east side there are many. The letter is very clearly seen. During the Civil War the letters appeared and have not been seen since and many feel that it betokens the approaching end of the war."

Another of those releases from RCA Exhibition Hall, New York, contains the information that Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Storch and daughter Tanya, 107 Ford street, Youngsville, recently had the novel experience of performing on television during a visit there, while taking in the sights at the Big Town. . . The Stoneboro Fair will be held as usual this year in spite of the fact that it no longer has a grandstand, since the structure collapsed last winter during a heavy snow storm; a proposal that steel bleachers be brought in from Grove City College to substitute for the stands has been found to be impracticable. . . The Elk-edette drum and bugle corps; Titusville, one of the attractions in the Warren Fourth of July parade, took first prize at Stockton, N. Y., as the best lady's unit, recently, and Friday won another first prize at Lawrence Park, Erie, for the same thing; they are looking forward to a good time Friday evening at Tionesta. . . Cribbs Home for Aged Methodists will hold its final ingathering at Conneautville Wednesday, August 8th, since the present institution is to be abandoned as soon as the new Cribbs home is completed at Meadville. . . The famed House of David nine has shut out 3 to 0 in a game with Black Ash Sunday at Horseshoe Stadium. . . We're looking forward to a good time and delicious eats when we visit the Boy Scouts at Camp Olmsted tomorrow along with a group of other members of the executive committee and Council officials. . . A musical treat is a store for folks down Youngsville way Friday evening, August 10th, when the Russell band will play a concert on the island beginning at seven o'clock.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Needles Johnston on Controls

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, who in 1950 wrote letters to the coal operators telling them not to let Republican Robert A. Taft make campaign speeches on their properties, has now received a grudging tribute from the Ohio senator. It happened at a Senate committee hearing. Economic Stabilization Administrator Eric Johnston was the witness. He was testifying that without wage and price controls, U. S. wage levels would have advanced far more than they have. Senator Taft challenged this idea, saying he didn't think controls had made much difference.

"I disagree intensely," said Johnston. "Look what Mr. Lewis got for the coal miners in January before wages were frozen."

"Just supposing Mr. Lewis had had that business three months later," replied Taft. "I would be willing to bet you a hat that he would have gotten what he wanted. . . As a matter of fact, you had to come in after he got it and approve it retroactively."

Office of Price Stabilization has just put out an order decontrolling tombstones. Reason given was that they had no appreciable effect on the cost of living.

Old line government bureaucrats are finding Mobilization Director C. E. Wilson a tough man to deal with. The Department of Agriculture recently went to him, asking that allocations of aluminum for rural electrification cables and tin plate for canning be raised to help farmers.

Wilson told them to take it up with National Production Authority, which was supposed to handle such things. Agriculture people had tried that, and it hadn't worked. But Mr. Wilson refused to over-rule the NPA decision.

DELAY over appointment of an Aircraft Production Board has been largely due to argument with Harold W. Boyer of Allison Engine, director of production engineering for General Motors. He was a member of APB in World War II. But he declined to come into present defense mobilization set-up unless given absolute power.

Defense production officials now in Washington don't want to give Boyer this much authority. It would give aircraft production priority over everything else. If Boyer does come into government, he will be first General Motors executive to join the team.

Another surprise on the list of Washington lobbies is an organization of businessmen who are actually in favor of price and wage controls to fight inflation. Founders and heads of the organization are Ed Stevens of Stevens Industries, Dawson, Ga., and W. L. McAllister, of McAllister Hosiery Mills, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Beef prices will soar and serious beef shortage will develop if controls are relaxed in any way, according to Department of Agriculture's latest survey of cattle on feed. It covers the 11 corn-belt states from Ohio to South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, and shows nine per cent fewer cattle on feed than a year ago.

American Meat Institute, which is the packers' trade association, translates this into 117 million pounds less beef in the next 30 to 90 days, than in same period of 1950. This is about one pound less per adult, but that's enough of a shortage to encourage black market, without livestock slaughtering quotas.

There are still more cattle on ranges than ever before, but feed-lot operators haven't bought them for conditioning and later marketing. The threat of price controls and roll-backs is blamed for this situation.

German Girl Bride Of Keith Patchen In Air Wing Chapel

Many friends here will read with interest announcement that a ceremony performed July 28th in the Air Wing Chapel in Munich united in marriage S/Sgt. Keith Patchen, Wing headquarters airman and native of Warren, and Lola Margaret Knoller, of Guending, Germany. The vows were exchanged before Lt. Col. Carl W. Hewlett, Wing Protestant chaplain.

"Patch", as the well known NCOIC of the Career Guidance Section is familiarly known in both Warren and overseas, was attended by S/Sgt. Richard N. Crego, while the bride's maid was Rose Marie Obermaier, childhood friend of the bride.

Following a reception at the Schelling Salon, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in the At-Raubaing vicinity of Bavaria.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carrie Patchen, formerly of Warren and now residing in Meadville, spent most of his younger years in Warren and attended the local high school. He entered the Air Force in December, 1942, and served in the Pacific theatre in World War II. He has been at Furst Air Base since January, 1949, during which time he returned to attend Personnel School at Lowry Field, Colo. Upon his return, he was assigned to Wing Personnel, where he served in various assignments before assuming his present post with the Career Guidance Section.

Mrs. Patchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Knoller, of Guending, attended Munich schools. Her father is a prominent German jeweler, who has designed settings for precious stones of gem lovers all over the world.

If 'Nobody Needs You' Be Glad---It's a Vacation

ARE you wasting time feeling sorry for yourself because nobody seems to need you now, what with the children pretty much on their own and your husband absorbed in his work?

If you are, stop it. You'll be needed again. So think of this period of your life as a time which you have earned a respite for yourself. It may prove brief, from having others dependent on you.

Looking at it that way, you are free to enjoy it. For if it is a period you have already paid on in the past by carrying a heavy load of responsibilities and will likely pay on again some time in the future, then it belongs to you.

You can look on it as a kind of vacation time when you are free to arrange your days pretty much to suit yourself. When you can, without any guilty conscience, figure out what you want to do and get busy doing it.

MANY USE TIME FOR BROODING

IT'S rather pitiful how many women never really enjoy their periods of "freedom." Instead of being grateful for them and using them to their own advantage and for their own happiness they sit around feeling sorry for themselves because they aren't "needed."

Somewhat they get the idea that unless they are "needed" they can't be happy.

They can if they will just set out to do things on their own, to do things just because they want to do them, entirely for their own pleasure and satisfaction.

There is nothing selfish in that. Real selfishness is for a woman to sit around feeling sorry for herself simply because her husband and children have become self-sufficient enough not to require much of her help.

For her long face will make them miserable, too. Whereas if she sets out to do what she wants to do, her family will benefit from her happier attitude toward life.

WAXMAN'S FINE FURNITURE

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GATNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

ICE cream is our favorite dessert by every survey. One hundred years ago, 1851, a man named Jacob Fussell of Baltimore first manufactured this dairy food commercially. Today, with millions of quarts being made annually, ice cream manufacture has become one of our major food industries. That may be one reason why our children are the happiest and best nourished in the world.

How about celebrating the ice cream centennial with a gala birthday cake.

Ice Cream Birthday Cake
(Serves 10 to 15)

One and one-half quarts strawberry ice cream (bulk), 1 quart vanilla ice cream (bulk), decorating candy.

Keep ice cream in freezing compartment while preparing candy decorations.

To make ice cream "cake": Pack the strawberry ice cream into a chafed layer cake tin 2 inches deep and 9 inches in diameter. Pack the vanilla ice cream into a chilled, deep round bowl or fancy mold about 7 inches in diameter.

To serve: Place serving plate over cake tin, then invert to unmold ice cream. Place another flat plate over deeper mold, invert, then slide vanilla ice cream off plate onto center of strawberry layer. Decorate with candy trimming and serve at once.

Note: If large freezing compartment is available, ice cream may be hardened and stored right in the molds. To unmold, invert and cover mold with towel wrung out of hot water until it can be lifted up; or dip quickly in hot water before unmolding.

Decorate cake with a candy crown and a big candy 100, if used to celebrate ice cream's 100th birthday. For other birthdays, other decorations.

Large Number of Building Permits Issued in Penn'a

During June 359 Pennsylvania municipalities issued permits for 7,700 building operations, expected to cost $49,719,796. This was an increase since May of 4.0 per cent in the number of operations planned and a 10.8 per cent gain in their dollar valuation. On the other hand, both the number of permits and the estimated cost fell short of the high June, 1950, level when 9,786 permits were issued, valued at $57,425,991.

Of the 2,797 residential permits, 2,792 were issued for housekeeping dwellings, which are to provide accommodations for 4,106 families at an estimated cost of $35,176,254.

The report from the Department of Labor and Industry, Harrisburg, shows that four permits for new residences were issued in Warren, estimated to cost $67,000. Five permits were issued for construction of non-residential buildings, at an estimated cost of $190,700; two permits were issued for residential alterations, estimated at $3,087; and for permits for alterations to non-residential buildings, were issued, due to cost $6,100.

In Youngsville but one permit was issued, that for a new residence to be built at an estimated cost of $5,000.

Display of Products Made In Local Plants on Exhibition at East Street Bldg. Cafeteria

"We have paid as much attention to the kind of people that live there as to the physical facilities offered by the town.

"The record shows how successful we have been in our choices. Many of our present executives came to us originally through our Employment Office doors in those cities and towns. Moreover, Sylvania has built its reputation on high-quality products—a reputation that never could have been earned except for the loyalty and competence of our employees everywhere."

Since Sylvania currently is active in fulfilling defense contracts and maintaining production of electrical and electronic equipment for civilian use, no company-wide celebration of the Golden Anniversary has been planned for a specific date. A number of Sylvania plants, however, have planned special observances during the anniversary year.

In 1909, Hygrade Incandescent Lamp Co. was formed to make and sell new carbon filament lamps, while Bay State continued the manufacture of refills until 1913. In 1911, Hygrade Incandescent began the manufacture of tungsten filament lamps. Sale of a 10-watt tungsten lamp for electric sign lighting was extremely successful and wide acceptance of this line was a powerful impetus for future expansion. The company moved to new and larger quarters in Salem, Mass., in 1916 and a year later the name was changed to Hygrade Lamp Co., Inc.

When Bay State was less than five years old, a group of Pennsylvanians formed a similar enterprise, Novelty Incandescent Lamp Co., in St. Marys, Pa., and began the refilling of light bulbs in 1906. After a few months, operations were shifted to Emporium, Pa., but within a year Novelty was operating in both places—producing new carbon lamps in Emporium and refills in St. Marys. Manufacture of tungsten lamps began at St. Marys in 1912. The ownership of Novelty changed hands three times between 1906 and 1922, when its name was changed to Nilco Lamp Works, Inc.

In the early 1920s radio broadcasting hit the American public with as sharp an impact as television was to do nearly 30 years later. Quick to take advantage of the new markets opened up by radio, Nilco formed Sylvania Products Co. in 1924 to manufacture receiving tubes. Hygrade began supplying radio tubes in 1928.

Both companies had started by refilling old light bulbs, both had switched to making new lamps, and now both had branched out into radio tube production. With their many years of common experience it was not surprising that the two firms merged and became Hygrade Sylvania Corporation in 1931. In 1942 the merged company adopted its present name, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.

Since the merger, other companies have been acquired and absorbed into the Sylvania structure. Product development, however, rather than the purchase of existing businesses has been responsible for Sylvania's major growth, and at the beginning of its second half-century the company is still growing rapidly.

Sylvania products are numbered in the thousands, but almost all of them fall into one of three general categories. The company is one of the major suppliers of glass envelopes containing an electrical circuit. These include incandescent and fluorescent lamps, radio receiving tubes, television tubes, photoflash tubes, and electronic tubes. Examine ment to use these envelopes, such as television, home sets, auto radios, and fluorescent lighting fixtures, constitute an important part of the business. The third classification is that of components by which quality of performance can be maintained. These include tungsten parts, chemicals for radio and TV, metal parts and stampings, wire, and plastic parts. Sylvania has more than 18,000 stockholder-owners. This is a big family and a widely dispersed one, since the stockholders include residents of all the 48 states, the District of Columbia, most of the Territories and about a dozen foreign countries.

That most of the company's shareholders are small investors, and not rich men, is demonstrated by the fact that seven out of every eight own 100 shares or fewer and 60 per cent hold 50 shares or less. The average Sylvania common stockholder has 108 shares; twenty years ago he had more than 500.

Since the merger in 1931, Sylvania has had four Chairmen of the Board of Directors and three Presidents.

Edward J. Poor, who joined his brother Frank and was president of the Massachusetts company from 1917 to 1931, became Chairman at the merger and served until retirement in 1943. He was succeeded by Bernard G. Erskine, who joined Novelty in 1906 and was Nilco president at the merger. Erskine died in 1945 and was followed in the chairmanship by Walter E. Poor, the third Poor brother. Upon Walter Poor's death in 1950, Max F. Balcom was elected. Mr. Balcom joined the Pennsylvania branch in 1918 and became Sylvania treasurer in 1944, a post he relinquished only a month ago.

Mr. Erskine was the first president of the merged company and was succeeded by Walter Poor in 1943. Don G. Mitchell, who came to Sylvania in 1942 as vice president in charge of sales, assumed the presidency in 1946 after serving five months as executive vice president.

Present officers of the Company are: Max F. Balcom, Chairman; Don G. Mitchell, President; H. Ward Zimmer, executive vice president; Robert H. Bishop, vice president in charge of sales; E. Finley Carter, vice president in charge of engineering; Arthur L. Chapman, vice president and general manager of the lighting and television division; Curtis A. Haines, vice president in charge of the radio tube division and the television picture tube division; Frank J. Healy, vice president and general manager of the lighting division; John B. Merrill, vice president and general manager of the tungsten and chemical division; Howard L. Richardson, vice president in charge of industrial relations; John S. Leary, secretary; W. Benton Harrison, Jr., treasurer; and Walter R. Seibert, controller.

The above display of all products made by the various Sylvania plants is on view in the Sylvania cafeteria on Second avenue.

Chapter 14

THAT evening after dinner, when George had left for his weekly lodge meeting, Edith and Betsy were alone in the living room.

Betsy sat in a big, deeply cushioned chair, one slim, tanned leg flung over the arm, the other foot tucked beneath her—a position completely impossible to anyone except a very young, supple body.

Edith looked up from her sewing.

"What, no date tonight?" she asked.

Betsy grinned and shook her head. "Nobody asked me. I'm afraid you're stuck with an old maid daughter, darling. Do you mind?"

Edith laughed. "Well, of course we'll be bitterly disappointed, but we'll try to bear up, she teased. "Now what's this business about 'nobody asked me'? The telephone has been ringing all day."

Betsy shrugged. "They're infants," she scorned. "I'm sick of kid stuff."

Betsy sat for a moment, her book forgotten in her lap. There was a far-away look in her eyes, and Edith waited for some clue to her daughter's secret thoughts. But when Betsy was ready to confide, she would—and not a moment before.

"Mum," she said presently, and Edith's heart warmed at the old childhood term. "do you think it's true that if you love somebody—well, pretty terribly—that somebody sort of has to love you in return?"

Edith's eyes widened and then she dropped them to her sewing. "Well, in a way, I suppose it's true," she admitted. "It's natural enough. If you love a person, you naturally show him your best and most attractive self. You work at the job of winning his love. And

I suppose if you work at anything long enough and hard enough, you get what you're after."

"It's Peter, I suppose?" Edith asked, impulsively.

"Betsy's eyebrows went up a little and she seemed to retreat. But she answered promptly, "Of course. Who else? It's always been Pete and it always will be."

"But, darling Pete's blind, surely, you must realize—" Edith stopped, halted by the look on her daughter's face.

"And that only makes me love him all the more. Because I can help him and take care of him—and do things for him," Betsy said quietly.

"I know, darling—but Pete's not in love with you," Edith's voice shook a little.

"I know that, Mother." Betsy's face seemed drained of all color. "He's not in love with me now. But if I work very hard, and do everything I can to make him realize, I'm all grown up and everything—"

A little later, Betsy yawned and said good night.

EDITH sat on alone, until she heard the door close at the top of the stairs. Then she put her face in her hands and burst into tears.

She was startled when she heard George's footsteps and looked up at the clock to see that it was eleven-thirty. George came in, looking pleased and relaxed.

"Hello," he said, leaning over to kiss her. "Waiting up for me?"

"You shouldn't. What's the matter? You look worried. I'm not that late, am I?"

Edith hid her face against his shoulder. "Of course I wasn't worried," she told him. "I thought you might be hungry. Would you like a sandwich and a glass of milk?"

Before he could answer her, she had turned toward the kitchen.

He watched her as she went briskly to and fro, making two sandwiches, pouring two glasses of milk. When they were settled at the little table in the breakfast room, he said quietly, "All right, let's have it. What's wrong now?"

Edith tried to smile. "It's getting to the point where you're afraid to come home, for fear something is wrong. Darling, I'm sorry. It's just that I'm such a fool." She paused a moment, then added, "I had a talk with Betsy—"

"Oh," George's shoulders sagged a little. "What's the kid up to now?"

"She frightens me, George," said Edith.

George added, "Think Peter Marshall cares about Betsy—the way she cares for him?" he asked uneasily.

"I am afraid not. I don't believe Pete would marry any girl, handicapped as he is."

"They're paid of the fun of being a parent, I suppose. Lord, when I think how uncomplicated life was when she was small, and what it's been like this last year—"

"I know," Edith hid her face against his shoulder.

"I still think a trip might help."

"I've tried. Short of dragging her away by the hair, and keeping her under lock and key, it couldn't be done."

"No, I suppose not. She's a stubborn little cuss," George pointed out, not without an obscure pride.

They went upstairs to bed, and Edith lay staring into the darkness until the first dim light of day began to creep into the room. But she was no nearer a solution to the problem of Betsy than she had been the night before.

Looking forward at Fifty

After half a century of progress,
Sylvania envisions an even greater future

ON July 31, 1901, Frank A. Poor purchased, with his savings of $3,500, a half-interest in a New England company that was struggling to make a profit—renewing burned out electric light bulbs. Five years later a similar company was started in Pennsylvania which grew under the guidance of Bernard G. Erskine. From these two small beginnings emerged Sylvania Electric Products Inc. . . . a company which today is celebrating its Golden Anniversary.

The story of Sylvania is a success story of men who had faith in themselves and faith in the people who worked with them. It is the story of courage, perseverance, and sound policies. It is the story of growth and achievement the American way.

Quality of Products—From its earliest days, Sylvania has looked upon "quality" as a basic policy. Extensive research plus painstaking care in manufacture and inspection have enabled Sylvania products to attain a world-wide recognition for highest quality and dependability.

Quality of Personnel—Equally important is another kind of quality which has helped our company grow. That is the splendid quality of our personnel. After all, it is people who make a product, inspect it, sell and service it. For this reason, Sylvania people are chosen on a basis of ability, character . . . and the way they fit into our organization.

And, this policy has paid off. For, through the years as our company has expanded . . . in each town and city . . . a close and strong teamwork and loyalty have developed among our people which we know as the Sylvania Spirit.

Thus, from a humble start in 1901, with 15 employees in an old wooden building, Sylvania has grown in 1951 to more than 21,000 employees with fine modern factories and laboratories in 25 towns and cities in seven different states, with subsidiaries in South America and Canada.

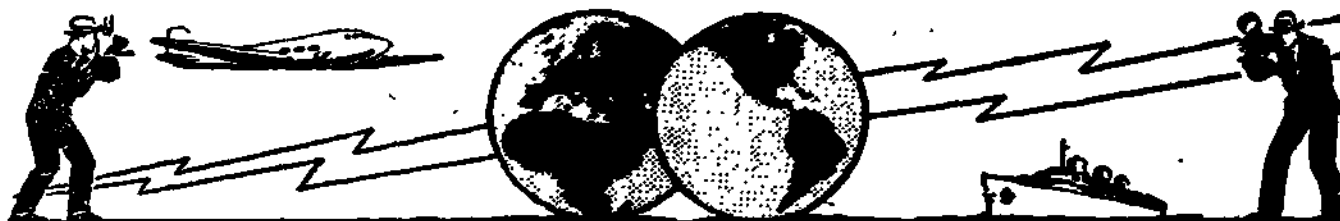

Sylvania is grateful to all of those who have helped us during our five decades of progress. And now, at a young and vigorous 50 years of age, the company looks forward to an even brighter future, and to ever-increasing advantages and services . . . not alone for those who buy and use Sylvania products . . . but for all Sylvania people:—those who work for the Company and those who live with us in our plant communities as neighbors and friends.

GONDOLIERS IN VENICE ON STRIKE AGAINST RIVAL MOTORBOATMEN

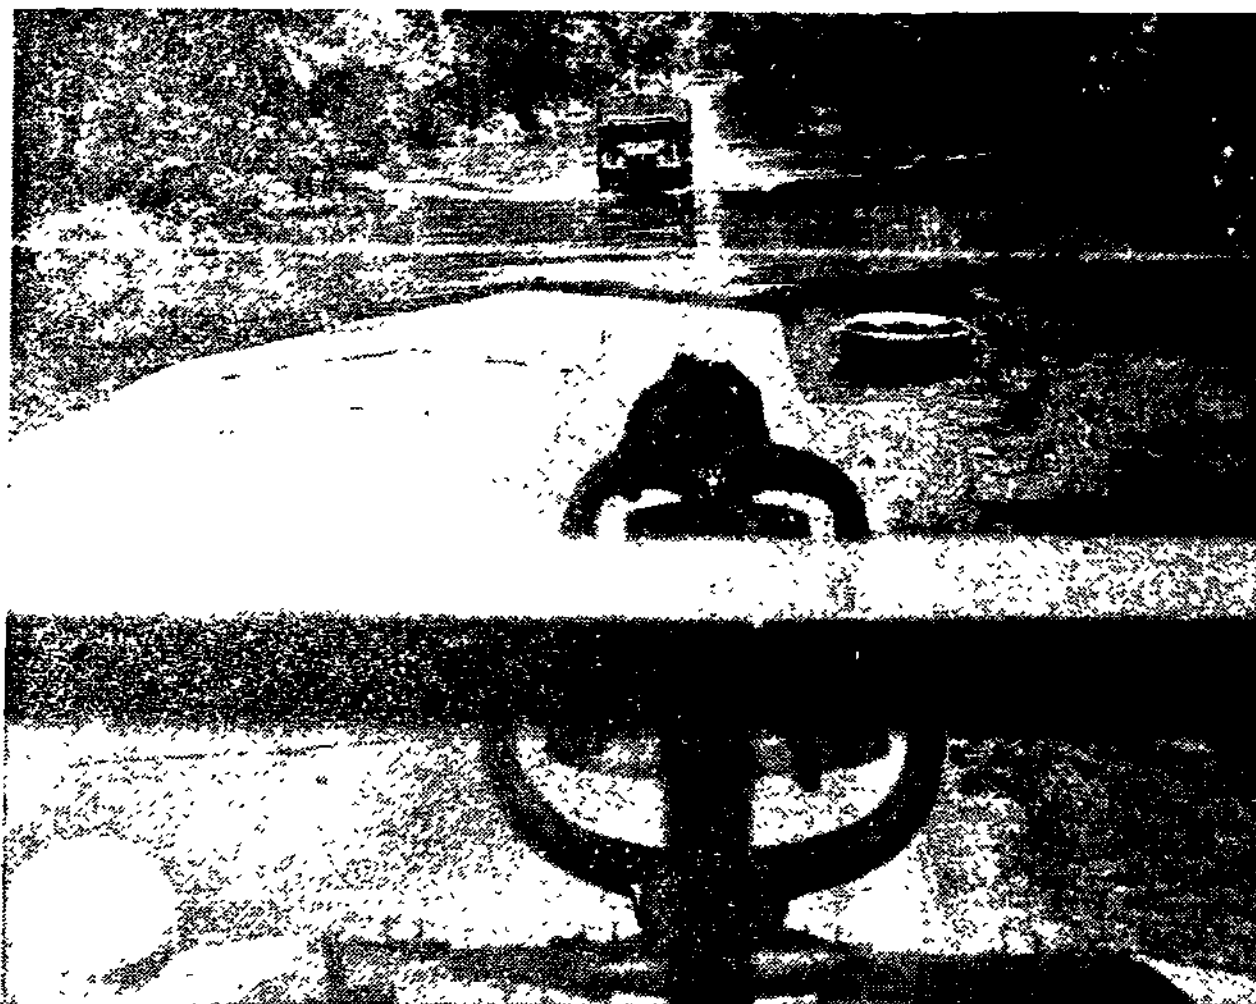

Copyright, 1951, by Acme Newspictures

RECEDING FLOODS IN MIDDLE WEST OPEN HIGHWAYS TO TRAFFIC AGAIN

SWITZERLAND BOUND—Tiny Stephen Meier, of Asbury Park, N. J., is checking out of a New York airport with Commander Robert Beck. The 19-month-old lad was en route to Switzerland in the care of two stewardesses, for a visit with his grandparents.

THE WORST IS OVER—With flood waters now receding in the middle west, the highway between Kansas City, Kan., and St. Charles, Mo., was becoming usable when this photo was taken. Someone had abandoned a rowboat upon the dry land near an Army duck and a truck which got through.

IDLE SPECULATION—The natural beauty of this quiet scene in North Korea is not the subject of conversation to these 1st Marine Div. Leathernecks as they rest during the peace negotiations. They're wondering what the next move will be and if it will involve them all over again.

FAMILY REUNION—As the Duke of Edinburgh returned to London from his naval command at Malta, he had a joyful reunion with his son, Prince Charles. Spectators were happy to see the youngster who is second in line for the British crown. His mother, Princess Elizabeth, would be the first to reign.

NO MECHANIZATION FOR THEM—In a strike against the invasion of the ancient waterways by motorboats, more than 500 gondoliers rode down the Grand Canal in Venice, Italy. These boatmen earn their living from their transportation fees and claim that motorboats, which are becoming more popular, are killing their business which has been one of the city's most honorable for centuries.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY—Donna Hutchinson knows what to do to cool off when the weather gets hotter and hotter in Cypress Gardens, Fla. She just climbs onto a pair of water skis and gets someone to give her a fast ride over the water. The scenery must be a bonus for the driver of the boat.

A wild animal is as welcome as a tame one to little Patty Sullivan of Port Leyden, N. Y. and this baby raccoon is too friendly at the moment to think of biting the hand that feeds him. Patty's father found the tiny animal in the Central Adirondacks after its mother had been run over by an auto.

YOUNG LADIES AND PETS

Ladies of all ages are generally fond of pets and two of these photos show various ways that are used to feed them. The tot directly below is too busy to feed her pet right now, but she will.

Pamela Anne Moore, three-and-one-half, of Lexington, Ky., is getting mighty impatient as she and her cocker spaniel, Reggie, wait for her parents to go through Customs after docking in New York. They had arrived from Rio de Janeiro where Pamela's dad had served two years with the U. S. Air Force.

A baby Sarus crane pecks his food right out of the mouth of his keeper, Arlene Saunders, who is in charge of the birds at the Philadelphia, Pa., Zoo. As far as zoo officials know, the feathered fledgling is the only one of his kind to be born in captivity, and he's getting the best of tender care.

Hammond Iron, Sons of Italy Cop 2nd Half Sunset Battles

Second half competition opened in the Sunset Baseball League last night with the first-half winner, Hammond Iron, topping Floridin Co., 7-5, while the Sons of Italy shut out the Suppa Studebakers from Youngsville, 2-0.

The Floridin-Hammond game was played at the State Hospital field and was highlighted by two home runs. Bill Massa swatted a round tripper for Hammonds with nobody on in the fourth inning, while Berardi smacked a four-sacker for Floridin in the second. Three-base blows were credited to Foley for Floridin and Kerchner for Hammonds.

Rod Kerchner was the winning hurler for the Ironmen. He fanned 12 batters, walked four and gave up eight hits. Read was on the mound for Floridin. He struck out two, walked three and was nicked for seven safeties.

The Sons of Italy-Suppa game was played at Wilder field, with the veteran Dix Hines limiting the Studebakers to two hits, both of them credited to the catcher, Ross Ananea.

Hines faced only 24 men, allowing only one walk and striking out 9 batters over the seven-inning stretch.

Bennett was on the mound for Youngsville. He struck out six men, walked three and was nicked for nine safeties, including a triple by Campman.

First run for the Sons of Italy came in the first inning when Campman tripled to the fence in right center and Ritchie followed it up with a single. Sons of Italy also pushed across a single tally in the second when Weidert singled with one away; Bonavita singled to right, but Sharp threw Weidert out at the plate; Bonavita took third on the play and scored on Johnson's single.

Youngsville threatened in the seventh. Haight fanned; Trask walked and went to third on Ananea's single; Welsh fouled out to third and Sharp grounded out to short to end the threat.

Two Sunset League games are scheduled for tomorrow night, with Youngsville Suppas meeting Hammond Iron at the State Hospital field, and Floridin Co. battling the Sons of Italy at Jackson field.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

By The Associated Press

Niagara Falls leads the Middle Atlantic Baseball League by a half-game today after sweeping a doubleheader from the Butler Tigers while Lockport was nosing out the Erie Sailors 2-1 to push the Lakers back to second place.

In another single tilt last night, New Castle unleashed a 16-hit attack to swamp last-place Oil City 10-2. Ken Geer won his 11th game against five defeats.

Niagara Falls capitalized on four Butler errors to win the opener 6-4, and then took the nightcap 7-2 behind the five-hit hurling of Ken Yount. Yount fanned nine.

A Rookie pitcher, Tom Mills, paralyzed Erie's big guns in dumping the Sailors to second place, limiting the first-half champions to four hits. Erie's run was unearned.

Dog Training Period Unchanged This Year

While an act extending the dog training period was recently passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, attention is called to the fact that the change in law does not become effective until September 1, 1951.

In other words, the dog training period for this year will begin August 20, as formerly. It will end March 31, 1952. Under the new act the training period will open 20 days earlier next year or August 1, 1952, and will end as before, on March 31, 1953.

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

Paul Farrell, Bradford third baseman, stole home last night to give the Phillies a perfect night in which they beat PONY league leading Jamestown twice.

Farrell's steal, part of a double by Farrell and Bill Newman, came in the bottom of the seventh inning of the second game and gave Bradford a 3-2 win. The Phillies' first-game win was helped along by manager John Davenport who slammed a triple with the sack full in a five-run third inning. The first game score was 6-3.

The double loss wasn't enough to unseat the Falcons, but it helped Bradford into fourth place. Wellsville dropped to fifth spot by splitting a twin-bill with Olean. The Oilers loss dropped them to third place and Hornell moved in the runner-up position.

Efrim Valdes handed the nightcap loss to Olean by pitching no-run ball until the bottom of the ninth when Paul Owens spoiled it with his fourth hit of the night to drive in Olean's only score. Valdes helped his cause with a homer in the fifth inning, but the bases were bare. His teammates accounted for three other scores to make the Wellsville win a 4-1 affair.

The Oilers won the opener, 4-3. Hornell beat Batavia, 7-4. In the night's other game, Hamilton's Cardinals slapped the cellar-dwelling Corning team, 16-3.

The national tournament now being held in Washington reminds me of an unusual hand that came along in last year's national championships. As this hand went from one table to another very few pairs managed to reach the laydown grand slam.
One successful pair was John F. Crawford of Philadelphia and Mrs. Margaret Wagar of Atlanta. Crawford's jump to four hearts with the North hand indicated a hand that was strong enough to

Thrilling Races Are Enjoyed by Large Crowd at Speedway

One of the largest crowds of the season enjoyed some thrilling entertainment at the Dicky-Ben Speedway, Starbrick, Sunday afternoon, it being estimated that between 800 and 1,000 filled the stands when the excitement got under way at 2:30 o'clock. Many of the old favorite daredevil drivers competed in the various events which resulted as follows:

Max Service, of Salamanca, N. Y., was the winner of the sensational automobile roll over after numerous tries, in which many of the racers participated.

Among winners during the afternoon were Ken Johnson and Carl Pintagro, Jamestown, N. Y.; Slim Nelson, Bradford; Fred Knapp, Jamestown; Bud Snyder, Bradford; Art Anderson, Jamestown; Jim Lanfield, Wellsville, and Don Dale, Leeper.

Ben White, manager, expressed himself as well pleased with the afternoon's program, and assures patrons that no effort will be spared to give them exciting programs throughout the summer and early fall.

Observed in the crowd that filled the stands Sunday afternoon were race followers from most towns throughout the section, including Jamestown, Dunkirk, Salamanca, Bradford, Kane, Corry, Union City and other points.

Big Crowds Will Be Their Problem

Chief Chappel

Officer Agnew

(Youngsville Courier Photos)

Three days of intense activity, August 9th through the 11th, are in store for Ed Chappel, chief of police at Youngsville, and Policeman "Red" Agnew, when the nineteenth annual convention of the North-western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association takes place there.

Chief Chappel, Officer Agnew and their augmented force will supervise what is perhaps the largest crowd ever to assemble in Youngsville, and while true hospitality and goodwill will be the watchwords, the police force will have many a traffic snarl to untangle.

In the "Rules Governing Parade," Rule No. 5 is indicative of what may be expected on the lighter side: "Please, no comic stunts to squirt water on pedestrians during parade."

Many Playground Activities Planned For Coming Month

A glance at the windup schedules for sandlot baseball and listing of special events still to be run off as part of the borough playground schedule shows no dearth of outdoor activity for the younger set in the month of vacation that remains before school bells ring again in September.

If past seasons are indicative, all ages will turn out on Wednesday and Thursday of this week for the big Hobby Fair contest that has been part of the playground schedule for several years. Eliminations will get under way at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at individual play areas and at the same hour on Thursday the finals will be staged at Beatty.

Boys and girls alike turn out for the Doll Show contest to be staged in like manner on August 8-9 and Director Inez Rudolph will announce soon dates set for a Boys' Car Day, Circus Day, a Bathing Beauty contest, Wild West Round-up Time, and a Yo-Yo contest.

Other contests and tournaments rounding out the playground schedule for August are as follows:

Jackstone finals at Beatty—6-7-8. Rope-Skipping contest at Crescent—6-7. Croquet finals at Memorial Field—6-7-8. Hopscotch tournament at Crescent—8-9-10. Foul-shooting contest at West Side—13-14-15. Horseshoe tournament at Crescent—13-14-15. Paddle Tennis finals at Lacy—13-14-15. Zell ball finals at West Side—15-16-17. Checker finals at Home Street—15-16-17. Shuffleboard at Crescent—15-16-17. Badminton finals at Crescent—16-17-18.

All of the above events will be run off starting at 10:30 a. m., while volleyball finals will be staged at Beatty at 6:30 p. m. on

RENT CONTROL NEWS RELEASE

Office of The Housing Expediter, Area Rent Office, 707 Commerce Building, Erie, Penn'a

Question: Do many landlords get increases in rent?

Answer: Ninety per cent of all landlords who submit petitions for adjustment in rent receive increases. For the past fiscal year running from July 1, 1950, to June 30, 1951, the Erie office granted increases to 3,873 landlords and denied only 395 petitions. 4,816 units received increases in rent averaging $6.67 per unit. Landlords should see our Rent Consultants who will assist them in preparation of proper forms in the event it appears that they have a basis for securing an increase.

Question: When are sleeping rooms under rent control?

Answer: In general, the answer is that sleeping rooms are under rent control when the landlord rents sleeping rooms within his own dwelling unit to more than two paying guests or when the landlord rents a room which is not a portion of the landlord's living quarters or the rooms are located in a rooming house or boarding house. Non-housekeeping, furnished sleeping rooms rented within the landlord's own private quarters are not under control if there are no more than two paying tenants.

Question: Several years ago I permitted my tenant to sublet his apartment furnished. I don't feel that this is a desirable situation and I would like to terminate it. What can I do?

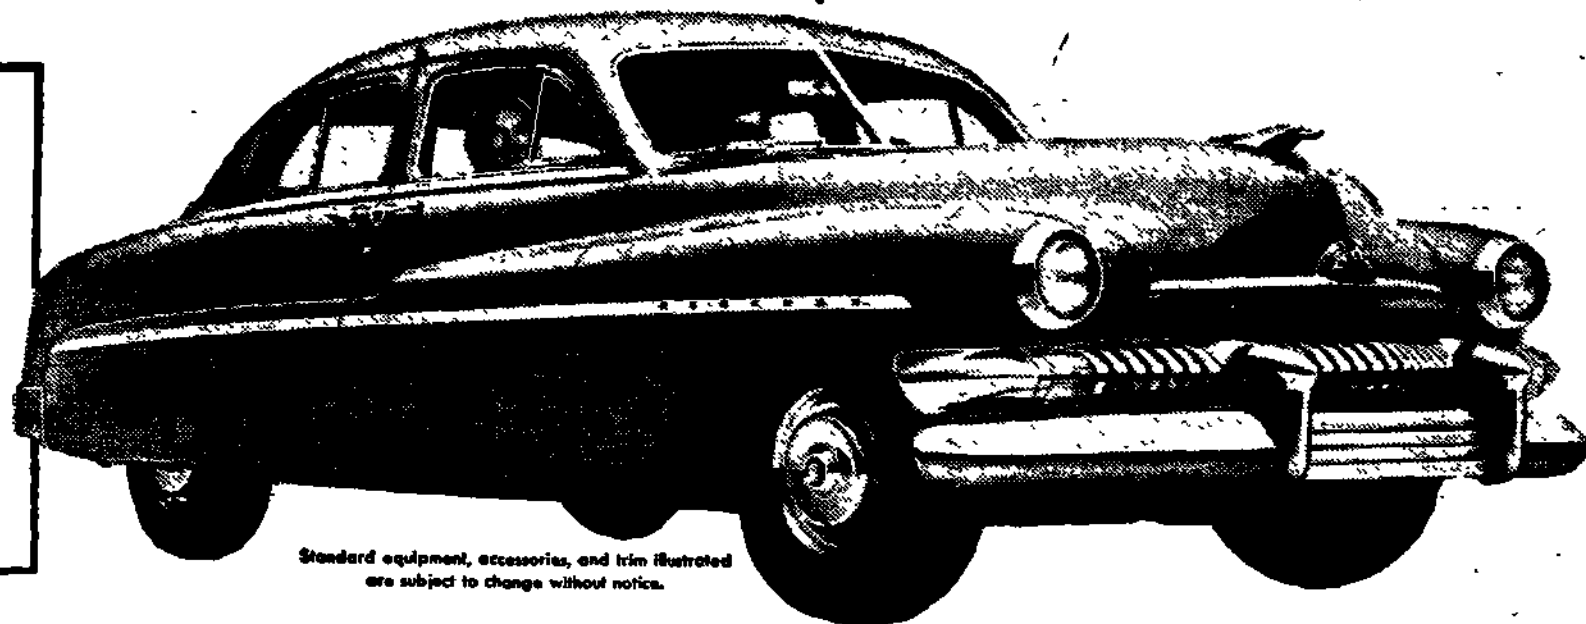

Answer: The Rent Regulations

the 15th, 16th and 17th; and a full afternoon and evening is planned on the 20th, 21st and 22nd, when softball leagues take over at Beatty at 2:30 and the basketball windup will be at 6:30 p. m.

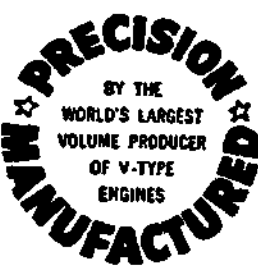

Detailed announcement of many of these events will be made as the dates draw nearer on the calendar.

Accuse Brooklynite Of Attempted "Fix"

New York, July 31.—(AP)—A 33-year-old Brooklyn fruit dealer has been accused by the district attorney's office of attempting to fix the NCAA championship basketball game between CCNY and Bradley March 28, 1950.

James O'Leary, secretary to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, said today that Jack Rubinstein was one of a group who offered Gene Melchiorre, Bradley's All-America cage star, $10,040 if he would throw the title game with CCNY.

Melchiorre has said he refused to accept the bribe. City College beat Bradley, 71 to 68, at Madison Square Garden.

Security Officials Issue Reminder To Employing Farmers

July is the month for farmers with regular hired help to file social security tax returns for the April, May and June quarter. Chester R. Norman, manager of the Social Security Administration office said today. Regular hired help is defined as a worker on a farm household who meets both of the following conditions:

(1) He must have been employed by the farmer continuously for a full calendar quarter. No tax is due for agricultural labor performed in this qualifying quarter. (2) In the next quarter he is employed by the same farmer in agricultural labor on a full time basis for at least 60 days, and his cash wages for these services are $50 or more.

Farm owners and operators who have regular hired help and have not yet registered with the Collector of Internal Revenue, for filing the quarterly social security tax returns should do so immediately, in order that they may get on the mailing list for receiving the tax forms automatically every quarter.

Regular farm hands who have never had social security account numbers or who have lost their social security cards should apply for new ones or duplicates as the case may be, at the Social Security office, 312 Hotel Jamestown Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y. A woman who does housework in a farm household is considered the same as a hired hand as far as reporting for social security purposes is concerned. In other words, she must meet the same requirements as a hired man to be considered regularly employed.

For those hired farm workers who meet the requirements of the new law this Government insurance provides monthly payments to them and their dependents when the workers retire after reaching age 65 and payments to their families when they die.

Cotton For Early-Fall School Wear

Little girls like to look their best on the first day back to school. Here are autumn plaids in cotton fashions that have a wrinkle-free finish. For the nursery school crowd, there's a red plaid (left) with minute collar and cuffs and tiny tucks on either side of the bodice. Gay green plaids (center) for big and little sister are jumpers styled overall fashion with separate white cotton blouses. Separates (right) are done in blue plaid with scalloped jacket and white blouse.

Pomona Grange to Meet on Thursday With Farmington

Lander, July 30.—Plans for entertaining Warren County Pomona Grange were made at the regular meeting of Farmington Grange No. 839. Master Lynn Burgett, in charge of the session, announced the quarterly meeting will be held in the community house Thursday of this week, starting at 10 a. m. and continuing through afternoon and evening sessions.

Members of Crawford county Pomona will be special guests for this meeting.

Mrs. Lynn Burgett and Mrs. Evelyn Wilcox presented the following resolution, which will be presented at Pomona and sent to representatives in Washington: "Resolved: That Farmington Grange 839 favors legislation to control retail credit by tightening credit requirements; "Also to reduce the liberal credit terms offered federal reserve banks".

Members of the local organization are appreciative of the generosity of M. L. Satterlund for placing in the Grange kitchen a propane gas stove which will be of great help when Pomona meets, since dinner and supper are to be served in the Grange Hall. Washington Irving, the writer, was once an American diplomat.
